I love the sun, who doesn't?

I don't tend to wear sun cream in the UK but I take it on holiday when I go abroad. The sun in the UK isn't hot enough to do any harm, is it?

I do make sure that my kids wear sun cream on every holiday, including in the UK, just to be safe for them. Being younger, they have more sensitive skin.

Why might parents put sun cream on their children but not on themselves?
